Claim Objections

Claims 1-7 are objected to because of the following informalities: In claims 1-3 each occurrence of "pressurising" is misspelled. For the purposes of examination, it will be assumed --pressurized-- was intended. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1 and 3-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being clearly anticipated by Gold et al. (USP 4,944,333).

Gold et al. teach a method and apparatus for safely analyzing the contents of pressurized containers. Column 3 lines 3-12 teach placing the container in a chamber. All of the gas in the chamber is pump out and replaced with an inert gas. These steps have been read on the claimed steps of " enclosing said container in a pressurized vessel; pressurizing said pressure vessel with a non-reactive fluid. Gold et al. teach in column 3 lines 13-34 puncturing the container which has been read on the claimed "piercing said pressurized container within said pressure vessel". Gold et al. teach in column 3 lines 45-51 various analytical analyzers that have been read on the claimed "analyzing the content ...". Column 8 line 23 teaches the inert gas is nitrogen.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claim 2 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Gold et al. in view of EP 039122[cited by Applicant in the 5/11/09 IDS].

See Gold et al. supra.

Gold et al. are silent to puncturing the container with a first pierce and a second pierce through which the contents are removed.

EP 039122 teaches a method for testing the contents of a pressurized container by piercing the container on both the top and the bottom. Column 1 lines 21-35 teach it is advantageous to pierce the container on the top and the bottom to obtain more accurate measurements.

It would have been within the skill of the art to modify Gold et al. in view of EP 039122 and pierce the container at two locations to gain the above advantages.
